Subject: FAQ ...about Jennings

Hi, I'm Massimiliano, from Italy.

I'm interested into your report about WTC7. I've read at your FAQ about.

I would like to bring your attention at this point:

"An emergency responder caught in the building between the 6th and 8th floors says he heard two loud booms. Isn't that evidence that there was an explosion?"

The sound levels reported by all witnesses do not match the sound level of an explosion that would have been required to cause the collapse of the building. If the two loud booms were due to explosions that were responsible for the collapse of WTC 7, the emergency responder—located somewhere between the 6th and 8th floors in WTC 7—would not have been able to survive the near immediate collapse and provide this witness account."

I think that after the question there's no answer.

I'm sorry in telling you this but I think that a very important Institute like yours, must give a correct answer every time.

So I ask you if you can better explain the second affirmation: "If the two loud booms were due to explosions that were responsible for the collapse of WTC 7, the emergency responder—located somewhere between the 6th and 8th floors in WTC 7—would not have been able to survive the near immediate collapse and provide this witness account."

It is clear that you're referred to Jennings words.

But it is also known that Jennings spoke about explosions before the south tower collapse (the first to collapse of the two towers).

So I think that if you had wanted to explain what Jennings heard, it is necessary that you first go to answer to those questions:

- Why Jennings was trapped before south tower collapse? (I've read the story in your report some months ago)
- Which provenience had the explosions that Jennings heard before south tower collapse?

I think that after those correct answer you can better answer to the question you put in your FAQ:

"Isn't that evidence that there was an explosion?"

I think you can also understand why your answer is a non-answer. I hope that you know about some demolition aborts... And that somebody can be found inside the building without to die.

Thank you very much for your attention.

Buon lavoro
